

This is the key to work place culture #garyvee #shorts

Changing your culture because you're so driven by a number of goals Success is actually stopping you from getting to the thing you want attention is the number one asset we lost as a major client My head person that runs all of the New York office which is the biggest office runs in And when I tell you White as a ghost I'm talking like Casper the friendly ghost like dead walks in he's like we lost We're talking about eight figures hefty on my computer I look up at him like OK let's deal with it later He had come from all these agencies where like what would have happened is complete chaos 100 people would have been laid off blah blah blah blah blah That doesn't come because my PNL is healthy though It is enough to absorb it It comes because I'm incapable of letting business dictate my emotional behavior
